

Adorable little angels can be made from the aluminum foil plates that frozen pies and pot pies come in. They are in several sizes, so choose whichever you wish; the height of the angel will be approximately equal to the diameter of the pie plate.

Cut off the rim of a foil plate, then mark off six sections on the circular bottom, as shown (A).

Cut along all lines with scissors; cut out the two small V-shaped sections at the top. Then draw in the head on the middle part, and cut out (B). The semicircle at the bottom forms the skirt, the two other parts make the wings (C).

Bend the lower section backward to form the skirt. Make slits in the top of the head, curl forward for hair. Cut the apron and crown from colored foil (D); curl the top of the apron, forming a ruffle. Paste the crown to the head.

Glue the apron onto the skirt; paste colored sequins onto the head for facial features (E). For variety, curl a small piece of metal pan cleaner, or yarn for the hair. Another change would be to cut the apron from a paper doily or from colored lace ribbon. Make the cap of paper lace, if you prefer.
