

If your front door is sheltered from the weather, a delightful idea is a felt tree, decorated with all the imagination your family can muster. With pinking shears, cut two pieces of felt 14 x 20 inches into a tree shape. Paste cardboard to back of one piece, leaving a margin all around for stitching. Then stitch together bottoms and sides of the two trees, but leave an opening of 5 inches on both sides to hold a few evergreen boughs. About an inch in from the edges, fasten an inside border of gummed ribbon, heavy gold twine, or contrasting rickrack. Trim tree with small Christmas balls, all the same size, arranged in symmetrical pattern.

Decorate a Christmas tree of felt