

Hang glass balls from the candelabra

Decorate a desk in a study or a teen-ager's bedroom with a stylized tree. It's small and simple enough not to interfere with working space, yet it serves as a pleasant reminder of Christmas whenever the student looks up from reading. The tree is made from a gilded dowel set into a dirt-filled, gold-sprayed container, such as a flower pot or refrigerator container. The tree itself is a jumbo Christmas ball, perhaps in a favorite color, and studded with beads, sequins, stars, and glitter. Set it, upside down, on the dowel.
