

Sleek salt and pepper shakers for the kitchen

Kitchen salt and pepper shakers are a fine gift from the boy who has learned how to hammer a nail.

Directions: Using two bouillon-cube cans, the first job is to punch holes in the lid — one in the center and six more around it. The lid should be removed from the can for this, and a dowel of proper size held under the lid to prevent it from denting. Be sure that the cans are clean and dry; then paint them with two coats of enamel. They should be bright contrasting colors, so that it is easy to see at a glance which is salt and which is pepper.
