

There surely can't be a little girl in the whole world who wouldn't love this cuddly pillow, to play with or curl up and sleep on.

Directions: Make the adorable sleepy-head from two 13-inch circles of Dynel and Orion fleece. Braid a skein of jumbo Orion yarn for the hair, and attach, pigtail fashion. Save a few strands of unbraided yarn to cut into short lengths and attach as ruffly bangs. The features are made from scraps of felt, glued on; the eyelashes are simply a curve of black felt with the fringe standing free so that a little girl can tickle herself with it. Tie perky bows at the bottom of the braids. Or you might start with any round, plump pillow in a suitable shade for a face, and proceed as above. Or make your own pillow from foam rubber scraps and the palest pink or cream-colored cotton, for the face. But be sure to make it big, and make its face almost beatific.
